

Coronavirus in Wales

The new restrictions announced by Welsh government on 22nd September 2020.

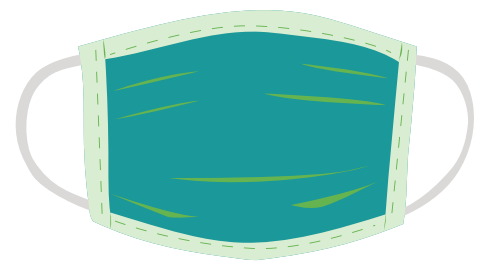

Pubs, cafes, restaurants and casinos in Wales must operate as table service only and close at 10pm each night from Thursday 24th Sept.

Off-licences including supermarkets will also stop selling alcohol at 10pm each day.

Only six people are able to meet indoors and must all be part of a single extended household.

Face coverings must be worn on public transport, in shops, and in enclosed public spaces across Wales.

You must think carefully before you travel anywhere, and make sure your journey is necessary.

You should continue to work from home where possible.

We all need to make an effort to follow these new guidelines from the Welsh government and remember to keep washing hands, using face coverings and maintaining social distancing so we can all get through this together.
